Special thanks to President Steven Knapp of The George Washington University, President Driss Ouaouicha of Al Akhawayn University, and President Gülay Barbarosoğlu of Boğaziçi University for their commitment to the humanities in higher education across the globe.

The Global Humanities Project also deeply appreciates the support of His Excellency Rachad Bouhlal, Ambassador of His Majesty the King of Morocco to the United States, and His Excellency Namik Tan, Ambassador of the Republic of Turkey to the United States.

We also extend our gratitude to the visitors whose participation enriches the project, deepens the discussion, and widens the conversation.
The Global Humanities Project seeks to highlight the importance of the global humanities in higher education, provide a platform for ongoing meaningful dialogue, and create a network of globally-connected universities working to shape global humanities as a central commitment in higher education.

GW, in partnership with Al Akhawayn University (Ifrane, Morocco) and Boğaziçi University (Istanbul, Turkey), will produce a series of interconnected events drawing on the humanities in different national and cultural contexts. These collaborations highlight the value and celebrate the contributions of humanities to society around the globe.

Each institution will host a celebration of Global Humanities in turn, providing participants the chance to explore and express the key ideas that are most significant for their time and place and to share the community and landscape in which they come to these ideas, as well as the influences of global society.

The series of events taking place at GW on March 5th and March 6th will provide a forum for champions of the humanities to engage in colloquia on topics under the Global Humanities umbrella and to identify ways to advocate for the humanities in higher education.

“These abilities are associated with the humanities and the arts: the ability to think critically; the ability to transcend local loyalties and to approach world problems as a ‘citizen of the world’; and, finally, the ability to imagine sympathetically the predicament of another person.”

—Martha Nussbaum
